Chloe has experience in various litigation matters, from the pleadings to the pretrial stages. She has represented landlords, construction companies, and individual defendants in breach of contract disputes and personal injury matters. Chloe has also successfully negotiated several settlements on behalf of her clients.

Chloe began her legal career as in-house trial counsel for a large insurance company, where she gained valuable courtroom experience and developed a strong foundation in case strategy and litigation management. During law school, Chloe served as an articles editor for the Chapman Law Review and received multiple CALI Awards for achieving the highest grade in four classes. In her final year, Chloe demonstrated her advocacy skills by winning the 2021 ABA Arbitration Competition.
